Services to remain same despite materials being in different buildings

The rows of books and periodicals are gone, the shelves that held them, packed away. Even the desolate area referred to as "the stacks" has vanished.

The only students that you will encounter in Booth Library today are those that are members of the relocation crew, a group made up of full time library staff, student employees and the Meyer group; the firm chosen by Eastern to head up the relocation of library materials.

In only five weeks, Booth Library has become vacant not a book, article or government document in sight.

So, now where do you go to do your research?

Booth is no longer one building, instead it is now comprised of four different locations - McAfee Gymnasium, the University Union, Booth West (the old IGA building in the West Park Plaza Center) and the Gregg Triad.

"The biggest challenge," Allen Lanham, dean of library services said, "is getting students to recognize that this is the same library, the same faces, the same equipment and the same materials, they are just in new locations now."

"The challenge lies in getting the students and faculty accustomed to the fact that this is the new home of Booth library for the next thirty months."

McAfee will be the central location of all library services.

"When looking for materials, or needing help in any area, I would advise students to start in McAfee," Lanham said.

McAfee contains all books that were

Boulay sentenced to 24-years in prison for first degree murder

Editors note - this is a brief overview of what has happened at Eastern since the last publication of the Daily Eastern News on Friday, April 30.

Editor in chief

A Coles County circuit court judge sentenced Justin "Jay" Boulay to 24-years in prison Tuesday, May 18, in the emotional sentencing of the former Eastern student who was charged with the murder of Miss Andrea Will.

"None of us can go back to Feb. 3, 1998," Judge Ashton Waller said in his verdict. "With all tragedies sentence provisions don't get to the real tragedy."

"I tried to be as open as I could to try to come to up with an understanding," he said. "I don't want the Will family to think that I have not thought carefully."

Boulay, 21, of St. Charles, received close to the 20-year minimum despite the family of Miss Will asking for 50-years, which is close to the 60-year maximum.

"Mr. Boulay got away with murder today," Patricia Will, the victim's mother, said. "I was shocked that more of a role was put on his life than my daughter's."

Boulay's mother Marcie Boulay said she anticipated this verdict, but she isn't satisfied with the prosecution's determination of her son fitting the identification of stalker.

"It is about what we expected," she said. "She lived with him the first week in January in his apartment. This is not something that shows the young lady wanted to end the relationship."

Defense Attorney Lonnie Lutz said the decision did not surprise him.

"If there was any case that warranted the minimum sentence this is that case," Lutz said. "He has no criminal history and no history of violence before this."

State's Attorney Steve Ferguson said in his closing statements the family didn't want justice for themselves, rather for their daughter.

"(The sentence) was a lot less than what I asked for," Ferguson said. "(The Will family) wanted the maximum and that is understandable."

Mrs. Boulay said the family feels "really, really bad about it," but her son will still appeal the decision.

"We will appeal the verdict and the sentence," Mrs. Boulay said. "We feel he was temporarily insane at the time."

Lutz said Boulay's appeal would be concentrated on asking the court to consider broadening the Illinois standard for second degree murder and the definition of insanity.

The defense called 10 character witnesses, who each gave emotional testimony on the defendant's behalf.

Family and friends testified of Boulay's personality and his character attributes including his father, Ray Boulay; mother; sister, Holly Boulay; and uncle, Richard Boulay. Boulay made his final plea before closing arguments.

"There is no excusing this behavior," an emotional Boulay said in a statement he prepared. "I wouldn't knowingly hurt somebody and I am still in shock over the whole ordeal."

"I am sorry for both families especially the Will's and especially for Andrea."

The Will family declined the opportunity to address the court from the witness stand on their daughter's behalf.

"The Will family expressed their thoughts in the court statements," Ferguson said. "For them to get on the stand and cry would be a show and they wanted to retain some dignity."

Mrs. Will said the family did not speak in court because noth-west wing of the Union. In addition the Union branch has its own circulation desk.

Booth West, the only off campus site, contains all books formerly in the stacks with the call letters P-V. In addition it contains all periodicals before 1990, university archives, government documents and microfiche. Booth West provides additional student seating areas and also has its own circulation desk.

In the fall of 1999, the Panther Shuttle will be able to transport students to this location.

"The West Park Plaza Center, where Booth West is located, has been a permanent stop on the Panther route since the inception of the system and will continue to be a stop in the upcoming semester," Lanham said.

The computer lab and student media center are the only resources still contained in the Booth Library building.

They will remain there for the summer term and will then move to the Gregg Triad dining service building in time for the fall semester.

After the move to the Triad, the computer lab will be open on a 24-hour basis and will contain an additional 50 computers.

All materials in McAfee can be located by students for check-out, but materials must be requested for checkout at the Union Gallery and Booth West locations. At those locations students must fill out a paper form or make a request via the library home page.

Students will also be able to print out a citation and send it to the circulation desk electronically. All requests are serviced on a first come first served basis and are serviced immediately after receipt.

The recovery time for materials will vary depending on the time of day and the amount of requests. Students can also request any material from the Booth West and Union locations through the circulation desk and computer systems at McAfee.

Students can send an electronic message to the circulation desk at either location and their request will be brought to the McAfee circulation desk.

The turnaround for this service will be anywhere from one hour to a couple of hours depending again on the time of day and the number of requests.

Materials can be checked out up until 15 minutes before closing, the same as previous semesters. Materials can be returned at any of the locations although Lanham advises students to return materials to McAfee because it is the central location for all library services.

The same security gates that were in the main Booth building will also be in place at all of the temporary locations.

Beginning today all locations will be open for regular summer hours: 8 am-10 pm. Lanham stresses that this is the same library system that the Eastern community is familiar with.

"All the materials that were available at the main library are still available at the new locations," Lanham said. "Nothing is in storage or unavailable to the public."

The only thing that did not survive the move is the old card catalog, an obsolete system that had already been phased out.

Lanham said that the relocation did not cut the amount of staff, but instead it presented a need for more student workers. The library will be looking to add more student workers immediately for the summer term.

Library tours to acquaint students with the new locations will be in place for the fall semester. It is a possibility that tours could be available for the summer term but Lanham could not assure this.

In the meantime, students can access any information about the renovation and relocation of the library through the library home page via Eastern's web site www.eiu.edu; updates will be posted daily.

With the new locations in place, and all of the library materials ready for the summer term, the relocation of Booth library could almost make you want to go out and tackle that research paper today instead of waiting until the end of the semester - then again maybe some things never change.

ing more could be said.

"If there was one thing that I could have said to bring her back to me I would have said it," she said.

Boulay will continue to be held at the Coles County Safety and Detention Center until assigned to an Illinois Department of Corrections facility.

He has been housed there since being found guilty on two counts of first degree murder on March

Boulay, who was released on bond, had spent 370 days under house arrest at his family's home in St. Charles prior to the guilty verdict.

Pepsi the choice of Eastern into the next generation

Eastern Illinois University could reap more than $4 million in benefits as a result of its now-official 10-year partnership with the Marion Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company.

The Executive Committee of Eastern's Board of Trustees gave the final stamp of approval Wednesday to an alliance which unofficially was formed August 1, 1998. It was then that the university notified the Marion Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company of its intent to enter into a five-year exclusive "pouring rights" agreement, with the option for an additional five-year period.

It took nearly 10 months and much thought and discussion to iron out the details of the 38-page contract.

"It's a very complex agreement," said Morgan R. Olsen, Eastern's vice president for business affairs. "There were a lot of business and legal issues to take into consideration."

The end result, however, appears to be a good one.

"I've seen a lot of exclusive 'pouring rights' agreements and I can tell you that this is an excellent contract," Eastern President Carol D. Surles told BOT members Tom Johnson, Keith Branson and Carl Koerner prior to the vote.

Under the agreement, only Pepsi-Cola products will be served in Eastern's dining halls, campus vending machines and during all university-related functions including athletic events. The agreement also will be in effect in the university's new Food Court, which is scheduled to open in the University Union in the spring of 2001.

Exceptions to the agreement are certain freshly-brewed coffees and teas and some juices, Olsen said.

The agreement provides that in exchange for the beverage company receiving exclusive marketing and pouring rights on campus, Eastern will receive $2.25 million in guaranteed commissions and an additional $813,840 in estimated additional commissions over the 10-year period, dependent on consumption.

Another $250,000 will go to the university as a bonus for electing to exercise the five-year extension option.

Eastern also will receive $852,250 in sponsorships over the 10 years, including $500,000 for educational activities, $43,750 in donated products and $308,500 for athletics.

The latter includes $133,500 for the purchase of scoreboards (basketball, softball, baseball, etc.) and related equipment (lane timer for swimming pool). In addition, annual payments of $10,000 will be made for athletics support (to be divided equally between men's and women's sports), $6,000 annually in unrestricted payments to the athletic department, and $1,500 will be paid annually for the sponsorship of one (or more) women's major athletic events.

The use of the $50,000 annually earmarked for educational activities has yet to be determined, Olsen said, adding that the decision would be made at the discretion of the president. The $250,000 renewal bonus will go toward the renovation of Booth Library.

"The state appropriation for the Booth Library renovation is going to fall a little short of the funds required," Olsen said. "This will be a nice way to get the library Eastern needs, rather than cutting back the project in ways we really don't want to consider."

Olsen reminded BOT members that the agreement does cover a 10-year period, includes estimates of future soft drink consumption, and that its proceeds won't immediately be available. Future years' commission revenues will be used to support ongoing budget commitments in various university departments, and to support development of the university's facilities and grounds as reflected in Eastern's Campus Master Plan. The master plan was approved by the Board of Trustees in April to guide infrastructure improvements over the next 15 years.

Campus receives boost in funding

Eastern Illinois University's appropriated and income funds budget will increase by $4,525,600 or 5.59 percent under the fiscal year 2000 state budget signed by Gov. George Ryan Wednesday, June 2.

Ryan also allocated $2 million in capital funds to plan renovations to Eastern's Doudna Fine Arts Center.

This brings Eastern's total appropriated and income funds budget to $73,193,100, compared to the FY 1999 budget of $68,667,500. EIU's operation and grant funds will come from three sources: $41,328,400 from the general revenue fund; $6,300,000 from the education assistance fund; and $25,564,700 from the income fund.

"We are generally pleased with the level of funding and want to thank Sen. Judy Meyers and Rep. Dale Righter for their sponsorship of our appropriations bill and for their efforts on behalf of Eastern," said Eastern President Carol Surles. "The funding support for Eastern will enable us to continue to provide quality educational programs and services to our students."

In its Board of Trustees-approved initial FY 2000 budget submission, Eastern requested a total of $75,277,400 in appropriated and income funds, a $6,609,900 or 9.6 percent increase over the current year.

"Because the state funds for Eastern were allocated in a lump sum, we don't know yet how the legislature intends for universities to spend the money," said EIU Budget Director Kim Furumo.

It is not known either whether

Eastern will be receiving full funding for a proposed $42.9 million renovation and expansion of the Doudna Fine Arts Center which was among the projects initially identified in the governor's Illinois FIRST proposal and was ranked 14th on IBHE's 52-item capital project priority list.

Other EIU projects listed for Illinois FIRST funding included $4 million for Booth Library equipment and $2 million for the chilled water loop.

The projects are listed at 45th and 46th on the IBHE capital project list.

Morgan R. Olsen, vice president for business affairs, commented last month that Eastern is "thrilled" with the Illinois FIRST funding proposal and hopes that any future changes in the plan won't affect EIU's portion.

"It's encouraging that the Fine Arts Center project was one of only two mentioned by Gov. Ryan in his speech on Illinois FIRST," he said.

The rehabilitation and expansion of the Doudna Fine Arts Center is among the $435.2 million in capital projects identified in Eastern's campus master planning effort.

The project, if approved, will begin with detailed programming of facility needs, then move to design of the building expansion and rehabilitation as recommended by the campus master plan, then to construction in subsequent fiscal years.

The building, originally built in 1958, is a very heavily used facility that doesn't meet the current needs of the Departments of Art, Music and Theatre which are housed there.

Summer offers more options

Students participating in the summer session have the chance to make history. For the first time ever, Eastern is offering two four week sessions in addition to the usual eight week session.

While this brings added flexibility to scheduling summer classes, it can also pose added strains to an already stressful and shortened semester.

Not only do students who choose to take the four week sessions spend two hours per day in class Monday through Friday, they also have to deal with an increase in out of class work that is only to be expected when you condense 13 weeks of material into four weeks of time.

While you might say that this is the choice of the student who chooses to enter into such an intense session, often students do not have a choice between picking one session over the other when they have specific classes that they have to complete.

Topic

Preparation is the key to success in the intensified four-week summer sessions.

the four week option can become an overwhelming reality.

This is not to say the four week option is completely without merit. For students who have the time to devote themselves to such a rigorous format and who do not want to spend any longer than they have to in a class they are apprehensive about, the four week option might just be what students are looking for.

However for those students who must work during the summer in addition to taking classes necessary for their degree, the four week classes might simply not be a feasible option.

The problem is not in the new four week scheduling, but in the lack of flexibility students encounter when they try to plan their summer class schedules without having a choice of format for the classes they need.

One possible solution could be to have a choice between formats for those classes that are in high demand so the student can design his or her schedule to allow the greatest possibility for success.

All students that enter into the summer sessions realize that they are committing themselves to a class or classes that will involve an increased amount of work, both in and out of the classroom. In many cases the intense and in-depth nature of the classes is a drawing point for students who want to study a specific subject in greater detail.

However, it is necessary for students to be aware of the added rigors that sessions like the four week ones bring. If you do not have the choice in the format that you are able to take then at least be aware of and responsive to the dedication that these classes entail to insure success this summer.

Campus will not have the same feel

Since the last time many of you have been on campus there have been numerous changes that we have taken for granted over the past year.

There are no books left in Booth Library, there is no McDonalds and the commemorative courtyard is now open. There have also been a lot of changes that may not be noticed by the naked eye.

Pepsi is now the official cola of Eastern for 10-years, the funds from the state were increased by nearly 4.5 million dollars and Jone Zieren was named the new director of financial aid.

What does all of this mean for us, the students you ask?

Bigger and better resources for the students and staff. The Pepsi contract will supply funds for new athletic scoreboards, renovations to Booth and $50,000 annually for educational purposes.

The commemorative courtyard, still not finished, is currently decorated by flowers where the clock tower and gazebo will eventually be located. The courtyard will also go through numerous smaller changes as engraved bricks will be added.

The state funding will help renovate the Doudna Fine Arts Center, and help Eastern in continuing to offer quality courses and programs.

With all of these improvements there are draw backs. The inconvenience of having limited food resources and the library resources being spread out around campus are the greatest ones.

But with these negatives there are also positives. Students who are attending summer school will have a head start when it comes to knowing where to find the resources relocated in Booth's renovation.

With construction projects happening all over campus,

David Pump
Editor in chief

“Students who are attending summer school will have a head start when it comes to knowing where to find the resources relocated in Booth's renovation.”

it is easy to take for granted what all happens down here. The O'Brien Stadium and Triad renovations and the upgrades in Carman are all some of the changes we can notice and appreciate, but students who return in the fall will be shocked by the new campus appearance.

Regardless of what inconveniences students encounter over the next eight weeks, they will probably be nothing like what students will be faced with in the fall.

And just think you will all be a step ahead.

■ Students that are looking for a place to eat on campus can choose from the Rathskeller, Coffee Express and the dining service in Stevenson until the fall semester.

■ Another adjustment students will need to make concerns the number of elementary and high school aged kids roaming the campus for the numerous camps offered by Eastern.

Over the years Eastern has offered these camps for a variety of reasons including as a community relations tool a recruiting measure and most importantly to make money.

These camps usually need Eastern students to donate time to help the coaches or faculty members run them smoother.

■ There will not be that many changes in the summer Daily Eastern News except there will be no Verge sections. Instead, there will be an entertainment page (hopefully always on page five). This one page section will highlight what is happening at the local bars and at the theater with a music review every now and again. This section will appear once a week in the Wednesday morning paper.

■ David Pump is a senior journalism major and a weekly columnist for The Daily Eastern News. Dave's e-mail address is dgpump@eiu.edu. Columns are the opinion of the author.

Editors note - instead of working with new cartoons the staff has decided to take a look back at what the Daily Eastern News published in 1974, 25-years ago.

Obviously the students opinion of the campus' food service has received the same rave reviews over the years. Unfortunately for students, the options for dining outlets has diminished with the closing of McDonalds in the student union after its lease ran out.

Weller Hall thanks those involved in Kosovo fundraiser

I am writing this letter to thank everyone who generously gave to the Kosovo refugee fundraiser. First, I would like to thank Weller Hall Council for sponsoring the fundraiser. Without the help none of this would have happened. Secondly, I would like to thank those organizations and individuals, which put their time and effort into the fundraiser. These include: Weller Hall residents, Phi Sigma Pi honors fraternity, Alpha Sigma Tau sorority and the Residence Hall Association. There willingness to help in this effort is much appreciated. Next, I would like to thank the various Recognized Student Organizations that donated money to the fundraiser. These include:

Your turn

Andrews Hall Council, AITP, Phi Epsilon Mu and Delta Sigma Pi. Your generous donations will feed, clothe and provide shelter for almost one hundred Kosovar refugees. The rest of the money came from you the students, faculty and community members. I want to take this opportunity to thank you, so very much, for responding to this cry for help. The $611.02 that Eastern has raised, will erase the suffering of many of our brothers and sisters halfway around the world. Please continue to pray for peace and for the hundreds and thousands of people whose lives have been shattered. Pray that they might feel the healing touch and grace of God in the volunteers aiding them and that they

Letter policy

The Daily Eastern News accepts letters to the editor addressing local, state, national and international issues. They should be less than 250 words and include the author's name, telephone number and address. Students should indicate their year in school and major. Faculty, administration and staff should indicate their position and department. Letters whose authors cannot be verified will not be printed. Depending on space constraints, we may have to edit your letter, so keep as concise as possible.

Yeah, baby! 'Austin Powers' shoots down 'Star Wars'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Austin Powers: The Spy Who Shagged Me," the swinging sequel to the surprise 1997 comedy hit, opened with a groovy $54.7 million to blast "Star Wars, Episode I - The Phantom Menace" out of the top spot, according to industry estimates Sunday.

On a huge weekend at North American theaters, the "Star Wars" prequel kept packing in audiences, bringing in $25.4 million Friday through Sunday to bring the George Lucas film near the $300 million mark after just four weeks.

But the Force was no match for the retro silliness of Austin Powers.

Starring Mike Myers as both the dentally challenged British super spy and his nemesis Dr. Evil, the sequel far exceeded industry expectations, collecting more in its first three days than the original made in its entire theatrical run.

It also was the top-opening comedy (beating last year's "The Waterboy," which debuted with $39.4 million), the top June opener (beating "Batman Forever" with $52.7 million in 1995) and the No. 2 non-holiday weekend opener (behind only "The Phantom Menace" with $64.8 million last month). Numbers are not adjusted for inflation.

"There seemed to be a hunger for a comedy," said New Line distribution head Al Shapiro, who also noted that audience expectations for the sequel started to build as the original caught on in video.

After near-disastrous test screenings befuddled preview audiences more than they amused them, "Austin Powers: International Man of Mystery" opened with a so-so $9.5 million in May 1997.

The film caught on over the summer and ended up grossing a respectable $53.9 million, turning a profit because the budget was only about $16 million.

But it was the video release that turned Austin Powers into a pop cultural phenomenon, becoming the No. 1 seller in 1998 and racking up another $44 million.

Combined with the staying power of "The Phantom Menace," which lost just 23 percent of its audience, and "Notting Hill," with just a 25 percent dip, the "Austin Powers" sequel helped boost box office totals 36 percent ahead of the same weekend last year.

"Notting Hill" collected $11.2 million for third place.

"Instinct" had $6.8 million for fourth and "The Mummy" had $5.1 million for fifth.

Estimated grosses for Friday through Sunday at North American theaters, according to Exhibitor Relations Co. Inc. Final figures are to be released Monday.

Granite City police chief defends low rate of DUI arrests

GRANITE CITY, Ill. (AP) — While some police departments engage in highly publicized crackdowns on drunken driving, Granite City Police Chief Dave Ruebhausen is defending his officers' low rate of DUI arrests.

Some people suspected of drunken driving in Granite City don't even get ticketed. Instead, they get a free telephone call to get a sober family member to drive them home.

Ruebhausen said enforcing Illinois DUI laws often isn't worth the time and effort. The paperwork takes officers off the street for too long and judges don't properly punish offenders, he said.

The result is that the 57-member Granite City police department issued just 13 DUI citations from Jan. 1 to May 31. By comparison, 25 DUI arrests were made by East Alton's 11 officers, while Edwardsville's 32 officers made 32 DUI arrests during the same period.

During all of 1998, Granite City police issued only just 31 DUIs, while Edwardsville had 82 and Collinsville hit 168.

"What you have to do with a DUI arrest is so technical it is discouraging to policemen," Ruebhausen said. "They know they are taking themselves off the street for hours for something that could end up getting thrown out of court."

Ruebhausen denied that he or his officers take DUI lightly, but he said he prefers that his officers focus on neighborhood crime rather than spend the two to four hours needed to process a DUI.

"I know our DUI numbers are low," he said. "It's my fault. But it's the system that's in place, especially when cases are tossed by judges. If you think that doesn't trickle down to the front-line officer, you're wrong."

Alderman Sandy Shaw heads the police committee for the city council in this blue-collar community of about 33,000 residents and 30 clubs and taverns.

"If it was up to me, I think there should be a license loss and full punishment," Shaw said. "Yet I can see the chief's point. If the courts won't enforce the law, maybe this is what should be done."

Brad Fralick, executive director of Illinois Mothers Against Drunk Driving, said he understands the chief's frustration.

"The fact that judges will often throw out DUIs or they won't be given serious consideration is a constant complaint," Fralick said.

Bangor takes the bad guys out of the friendly skies

BANGOR, Maine (AP) — It sounds like a bad joke: An international traveler has a few too many drinks on the plane, causes a ruckus and wakes up in a jail cell — in Bangor, Maine.

But three Brits currently housed in the county jail aren't laughing. As air rage increases, more and more trans-Atlantic pilots are making pit stops here to drop off unruly passengers.

"It's like being chucked off the bus," says Jeff Russell, marketing director at the Bangor International Airport. "I'm sure it's an unpleasant surprise to wake up in Bangor."

The airport embraces its role of taking menacing passengers out of the friendly skies.

In an average year, eight to 12 planes divert to Bangor to drop off belligerent passengers, like an Italian tourist who assaulted a flight attendant last spring when she told him he couldn't smoke in the bathroom.

About 25 percent of landings are by pilots who never planned on coming here but land for mechanical malfunctions or medical and refueling emergencies.

They take advantage of the runway at this former Air Force base, which at 11,439 feet is long enough to accommodate the space shuttle.

The number of nasty passengers seems to be growing.

In the last five weeks, three British men have ended their travels in Bangor after acting up in the air.

Bryan Neal, a 25-year-old from Milton Keynes, England, woke up in the Penobscot County Jail after smashing video equipment and a Plexiglass interior window on his May 3 flight from Florida to England.

He was so drunk that he doesn't remember breaking the window or telling fellow passengers he hoped they would "get sucked out and die," his lawyer says.

Neal pleaded guilty in federal court to interfering with a flight crew. In state court, he pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct and failure to submit to arrest. He was sentenced to 60 days in jail and ordered to pay $28,875 restitution to Airtours International.

On June 5, two Delta Air Lines flight attendants were treated at a Bangor hospital after Christopher Bayes, 41, of Manchester attacked them for refusing to give him more alcohol on his flight from Atlanta to England.

After a bloody clash, the flight attendants tied Bayes up with linen napkins from first class and sat on him until they reached the gate.

Bayes was charged with assault, interference with a flight crew and causing an aircraft to make an unscheduled landing.

In the third case, Shabiyah Negus Davidson, 18, of West Midlands, England, went berserk May 26 and grabbed a female passenger by the throat on his flight from Jamaica to Amsterdam.

Eastern plays host to boys and girls state track meet

By Chad Verbais
Sports Editor

The IHSA recently held its 1999 men's and women's state track and field meets here at O'Brien Stadium during the break between semesters. The visit marked the 25th year for the men, and the 26th year for the women that the IHSA has held its annual championship on Eastern's campus.

With the women having their meet on one weekend, and the men holding theirs the next, scheduling becomes second nature after so long and this year proved to be no different.

"In one word it was excellent," associate athletic director Dave Kidwell said. "A few things happened this year, just by circumstance of the construction site, that required us to make a few adjustments which really helped ease the flow of both events."

Adjustments that included moving the hospitality tent to the tennis courts adjacent to the stadium and moving concession stands to the parking lot are things that may be permanent in the future of the events according to Kidwell.

The women descended on campus first, holding their event the weekend of May 21-22. Class A saw Timothy Christian High School dominate the field early and often on their way to their third championship of the 90's. Even though not one member of the Trojan's squad won an individual championship they were still able to secure enough points through various runner-up finishes for the championship.

Class AA was trampled by the Mustangs of Morgan Park High School. Their 108 points were the most scored by a team since East St. Louis Lincoln scored 114 in 1990. Much of the Mustang's success can be attributed to a five foot bullet, Takoya Thomas. She won the 100 meter, ran an incredible 23.2 second anchor leg on the winning 800-meter relay, finished second in the 200 meter, and ran on the third place 400-meter relay.

After a quick cleanup of the stadium and facilities, the men visited for their event the weekend of May 28-29. Class A saw the Harrisburg Bulldogs outdistance Spring Valley Hall High School for the championship.

But the big drama of the weekend happened in Class AA where Wheaton-Warrenville South edged Thornwood for the title. Thornwood led going into the last event, but Wheaton South pulled off an upset in the 1,600-meter relay to take the championship. Jon Schweighardt ran a 48-second anchor leg to bring the Tigers first place and clinch the team title.

"Both events went very smoothly," Kidwell said. "We have a contract with the IHSA to continue holding the events here through 2002, and I would be very surprised if the contract was not renewed at that time."

Update

Head baseball coach Jim Schmitz was named OVC Coach of the Year for the second consecutive season.

Eastern's men's golf team will return all but one player from the squad of this year that finished tenth in the OVC Championship. Junior Blake Kearney was the top Panther finisher in the tournament, ending up tied for 41st. Kearney also led the team in lowest averages this season, shooting a 78 through nine rounds.

The women's golf team finished fourth in the five team field at the OVC Championships. All five players will return next season. Junior Kara Dohman finished tied for 12th at the OVC Championship. Dohman was the top Panther individual in three meets this season and finished with a team leading 87.38 stroke average.

The Panther men's tennis team lost its last nine meets before finishing the season 7-16 overall and 1-4 in the OVC. Freshman Jay Braun was named all-conference, the first time such an honor has been given to a Panther men's tennis player since Eastern joined the OVC. Braun finished the season undefeated in the conference and had the lone Panther winning record in singles play.

"The men's team was really young this year, but they did show signs of improvement," head coach Marla Reid said. "We beat some teams fairly soundly this year that we lost to last year. Next season we are going to be looking at our two new players (Lukasz Pluta and Matt Sadler) to come in and help us out immediately."

The women's tennis team finished 12-9 overall and 4-2 in the OVC. They took home fifth place at the OVC Championship by defeating Morehead State and Eastern Kentucky. Senior Adeline Khaw and junior Rachel Wright were named all-conference for their near perfect record in singles play.

"The women did extremely well this year," head coach Reid said. "Everyone stepped up and did a good job. I think next year we will get some stronger players in and hopefully improve our play even more."

The Panther softball team won its last 13 of 16 games to finish 26-29 overall and 13-9 in the OVC. Eastern was a runner-up in the OVC post-season tournament for the third straight time after wrapping up the regular season with a fifth place finish.

Five Panther softball players earned All-OVC honors. Junior Julie Fonda repeated as a First Team selection, while senior Stacy Siebert and freshman Leah Jones were named to the Second Team. Senior Amy Kukman and junior Adrienne Noll each picked up Honorable Mention distinctions.

Berth

Success was their ability to win the weekend conference series after a slow non-conference start.

"We weren't playing well at the beginning of the season, but put all of our attention on winning conference," he said. "The only way for us to go to the show was to win the conference tournament and to do that we needed a first or second round seed."

Eastern did just that, losing only one weekend series all season and that was to Southeast Missouri the last weekend in March.

Draft

started the season a bit rocky losing his first eight decisions. The junior finished strong winning his final two decisions and earning a spot on the OVC all-tournament squad.

"What held me back was that I had a bad year," Gage said. "But I still am really excited about being drafted."

It was the way he pitched in the tournament contest against Eastern Kentucky that Schmitz said showed him how good of a pitcher he is.

"We are really pleased with his adjustments at the end of the year," Schmitz said. "The OVC tournament game against Eastern Kentucky was his best start all season."

Baseball earns first ever NCAA berth

Panthers make good showing in regional before bowing out

By David Pump
Editor in chief

Eastern's baseball team earned its first ever berth into the Division I NCAA Regional, but fell to No. 4 Baylor in the opener and Big Ten Champion Minnesota in the loser bracket to earn a trip back to Charleston.

"Last year we talked about goals and we had seven or eight set and we accomplished all but one," head coach Jim Schmitz said. "This year we spent five minutes and the team returned one little piece of paper with two words on it - NCAA Regional."

The Panthers earned the right to play the national tournament after capturing its first ever Ohio Valley Conference playoff title.

Schmitz said the team made a strong showing in Waco, Texas not only for itself, but for the entire university.

"Any team that wins needs to have players that believe and fight all the way," he said. "We represented the OVC and Eastern and we want to do it again."

Eastern played spoilers for the University of Arizona, knocking the Wildcats out of the tournament in the second game.

"Just sitting in the dugout and to see how well we played gave me a lot of satisfaction," Schmitz said. "We knew going in that if we played quality baseball we had a chance to win. I am not saying we are as good as the Baylor's, but how we played against Arizona is a good indication."

This season Eastern was anchored by its five seniors, Ryan Bridgewater, Brian Hantosh, Sean Lyons, Jeremy Sanders and Mark Tomse.

"I have to give a lot of credit to the seniors," Schmitz said. "They kept the team focused and I was fortunate to have them."

Gage signs professional contract with Oakland, Larson receives draft day call from Twins

David Pump
Editor in chief

The opportunity to play professional baseball doesn't come along too often, so when junior pitchers Matt Gage and John Larson received the call they each had a tough decision to make.

Should they return to Eastern for their senior season or should they test the professional market?

Gage decided to sign with the Oakland Athletics after being selected in the 20th round of the college draft. He will be assigned to play rookie ball in Oregon for the Southern Oregon Timberjacks.

"I was initially looking at going somewhere between the 10th and 12th, but I kind of fell," he said. "Playing professional baseball has always been a dream and I don't want to push it off."

Conversely, Larson has apparently turned down the Minnesota Twins' offer after being selected in the 17th round.

"He told me that the Twins made him an offer, but that he was going to Quincy and planning on returning," Eastern head coach Jim Schmitz said. "But if he would have decided to go I would have also been happy with that."

Larson was the Panthers' No. 1 starter last season and he lived up to that roll after posting a 10-3 record and a 3.20 ERA. The junior also posted single season school records in innings pitched and he tied the record for wins.

"He had a banner year," Schmitz said. "To be able at any level to have your No. 1 pitcher go out and win the first game of the weekend took the pressure off of us."

Before the season Gage was the Panthers' best professional prospect, but

Men's track wins its sixth straight conference crown

Editors note - this is a brief overview of what has happened in Eastern athletics since the last publication of the Daily Eastern News on Friday, April 30.

By Chad Verbals
Sports Editor

Eastern's spring athletic teams produced two Ohio Valley Conference champions. The men's outdoor track team won its third straight title, while the baseball team also took home a conference championship.

Men's track was helped along by senior Chad White, who won his first conference 400 in six attempts, and sophomores Jason Bialka and Justin Young.

White won the 400 meter dash and placed second in the 200 meter, while Bialka won the 1500 meter and placed third in the 800 meter. Young won the high jump with a leap of 6' 9 3/4".

Head coach Tom Akers won the Outdoor Coach of the Year Award for the sixth straight time.

on ourselves to stay at the level we are at," Akers said. "Winning conference is more relief than a joy, so maybe there are some things we need to reevaluate."

The women's track team earned 91.5 points to take the third place position this year at the championship meet. They were anchored by junior Candy Phillips who placed second in the high and long jump competitions and third in the 100 meter hurdles.

The Panther baseball team won its second consecutive OVC title and received an automatic bid into the NCAA regional by winning the OVC Tournament Championship. Eastern (33-23 overall, 17-7 OVC) opened tournament play against 10th ranked Baylor and lost 7-3 before coming back to beat Arizona 13-4. The Panthers then played later that night and lost to 25th ranked Minnesota 15-10.
